Starting in Vortex Pillar

The purpose of this pamphlet is to guide new members to the peak of their performance. They will learn how to achieve this through their participation in the Vortex Pillar.

First you need to know the rules and what you will need to do.
This information can be found in the appropriate discord channels. For more information you can read our Bylaws below.

Objectives and goals:

Our goal is to rise as a Pillar, and keep it a safe and enjoyable place for everyone.

Ranks

General

General is for the Celestial leader of the Pillar, and they have the final word. The General should keep the Pillar informed of tasks as well as how to do them. They should also help newcomers, coordinate tasks, and help each member of the team.

Corporal

Corporals are the members of the Pillar They should help newcomers and guide them with new information and tasks. Their job is to look after members and help where they can.

Private

Private is for all pledges. They must follow rules and regulations, as well as complete tasks, and commands given from the Corporals and Generals. Rule breaking may result in not being able to go further in the Pillar. If a Private finds a Corporal abusing their power, they must contact a General and Staff.

Rules and Regulations:

1. Follow the instructions of higher ranks.
2. Be a good person.
3. Do not post NSFW material. Doing so may result in removal.
4. If another member or situation is making you feel uncomfortable feel free to reach out to a General/TCT Leader for help.
5. As this is a part of the TCT, you shouldn't leak any information that is not public. Leaking may result in consequences from the Pillar and TCT.
6. Follow Discord Terms of Service. If anyone is caught breaking Discord's official terms of service, we will be obliged to report them to Discord's trust and safety team and they will likely be removed from the server.
7. Do not message or ping Officials.
8. Do not post links to unrelated 3rd party locations. Do not ask TCT members to join separate communities or provoke other people into asking others to join them unless you have permission from a TCT Leader.
9. Do not discuss the contents of TCT channels with anyone who is not a member of the TCT unless you receive the appropriate permission from staff.
10. Do not express insults, racist, sexist, or other derogatory comments at any time.

New pledge information:

- Most of the information you need can be found in this document.
- If you need to ask a question, a General and/or Corporals can help you.
- Important information can often be found in the discord pins. Please remember to check them, especially when updated.
- Read the rules. Some of the rules here are from the Official TCT Discord Server. If you do not see some rules from the server, it does not mean you shouldn't obey them.
- To receive a promotion from the rank of private, you must be trusted in the Pillar, friendly, and respectful. Promotions are handled by Generals, after showing you are trustworthy and reliable as a pledge. The leadership course must also be passed to be eligible for a promotion.
- It's important to participate in Pillar projects, complete goals and objectives. If you do not participate in them, without being excused, you will be removed from the Pillar.
- If you need to be excused please contact/direct message Mod Mail and tell them the length of time you need to be excused. Example: Hello! I would like to be excused for 1-2 weeks.

Vortex Lore

On a long lost planet...

On a long lost planet there was a species of aliens that were gradually growing sentient, learning to use sticks and stones as weapons and trying to figure out other things than just survival. A four dimensional being that is now called The Vortex discovered the creatures and blessed them with some of its power. This allowed them to rapidly evolve and create new things far beyond their previous capabilities, such as buildings for them to live in. Four variants of the species developed, Archers, Snipers, Bombardiers and a Blowdart based race. They were lead by 4 vortex leaders of old named Moka, Flax, Yhon and Riets- they lead the vortex species to unite and create a safe haven, an ultimate vortex stronghold named Vortexia where they could live in peace and harmony. Eventually these heroes were lost to time and their names were forgotten. New technology was developed eventually, peaking when two scientists named Noiseuss and Coffee invented space travel.

Vortex Lore

Planets and Galaxies

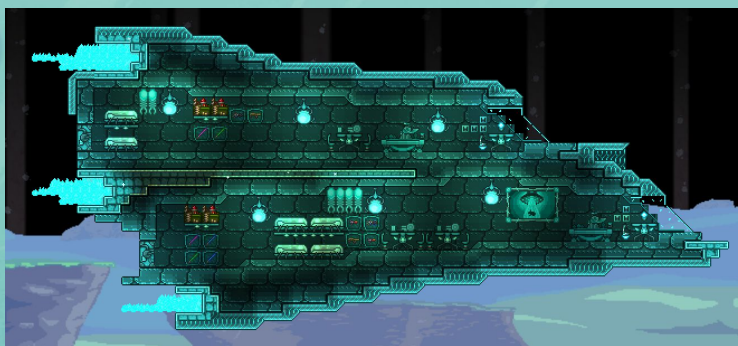

Another scientist named Pynguin developed a kind of atmosphere generator which allowed them to explore previously uninhabitable planets. The Vortexians' hunger for resources grew and they started to colonise different planets and galaxies, destroying any lesser beings that tried to resist them. Finally, Vortexians discovered the Moon Lord and his destructive power. Afraid, the vortexians decided to seal the Moon Lord, sacrificing his own power, and sealing him with what they called a Vortex Pillar. However times grew darker and the vortex empire started to unexplainably lose ships and squadrons. Two explorers named Admiral Liquid and Captain Flame led an elite team to try to find out the cause of the disappearances.

Vortex Lore

Encounter

They encountered a planet known as E-1YXE, also known as EYE for short. This area was generally unexplored but they decided to enter the atmosphere only to be met by blasts of pink nebulatic magic. The remaining ships retreated to the stronghold of Vortexia to discuss their next actions. A new kind of heavy armored dreadnought ship was developed by Dror to try and counteract the strength of the nebula blasts, they called it Project: Turtle. The next week the turtle operation was in motion with the dreadnought leading the way with two artillery ships following. Once the convoy had reached E-1YXE's atmosphere, they moved into a defensive formation and began to lower towards the planet.

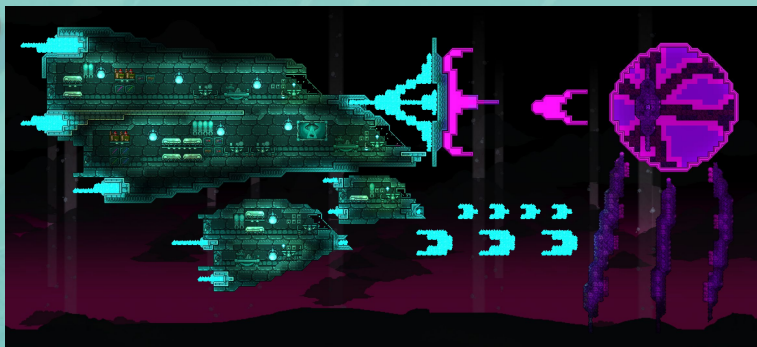

Project Turtle:

Vortex Lore

Flame and Liquid ordered the advance to halt as their radar depicted a ginormous eye at the centre of the planet which was the cause of the nebula magic. The eye began to fire but the hull of the dreadnought stood strong and they continued their advance. The Vortex cannon began charging to engage the eye, but suddenly purple energy began to surround the eye and a portal opened with purple tentacles flying out of it, and strange creatures that all marched in almost hivemind-like formation, began to launch nebula blasts towards the three ships.

Eventually admiral Liquid gave the order for the Dreadnought to begin it's onslaught, and its Vortex Cannon began throbbing and launching giant shells of vortex energy at the eye and its allies, obliterating them in the thousands. Alas the eye managed to escape through its portal which closed behind it. The last of the nebula army was finished off and the Vortexians were victorious.

Vortex Lore

Disagree about the Future

The crew rejoiced but they knew it was not over.

The convoy retreated back to Vortexia where Admiral Liquid and his partner Dror began amassing an elite army known as the Silver legion which would be used to defend from the eye and hopefully seal it away forever. However

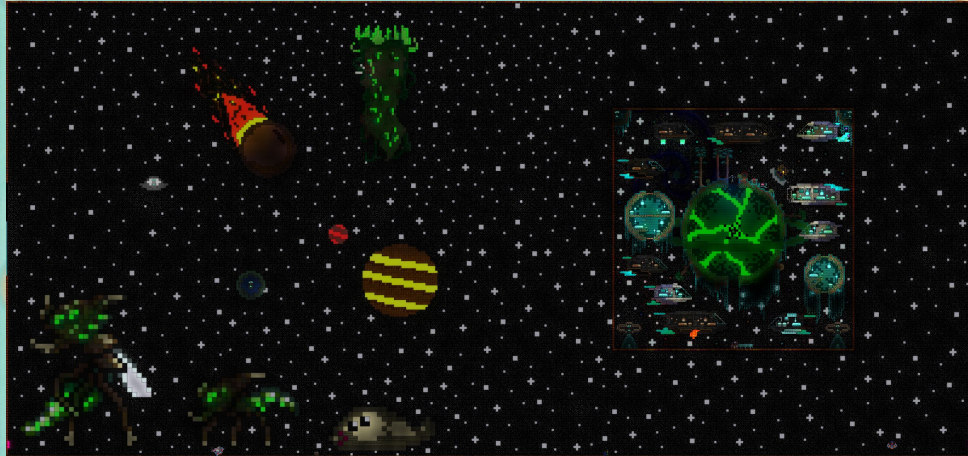

Flame and Vampir knew that the eye would not stop coming and decided to bring together their own force and hopefully try to hunt and destroy the eye for good. The two sides grew more separated and disagreed often but overall they knew the true enemy was the purple eye and neither of them would allow for it to get an upper hand over the Vortex empire. Nebula had begun a war but now it was time for them to finish it.

Vortex Flag

The vortex flag is one of heroes. It has waved admirably through every battle, and continues to do so. The helmet represent the brave soldiers who fought against The Eye. The spheres represents the ever turning wheels of thought, of the great scientists, who have built the vortex civilization. Finally, the green resembles the reason we have thrived, The Vortex.

Vortex Base

Our base territory is covered with Vortex art; Within our base is the battle scene between The Eye Destructors and Silver Legion, near the planet "2X7R" and it's moon's "2X7R-A" and "2X7R-B", that were colonized for our needs. Each spaceship and each planet, except "2X7R", contains one or two rooms for players to live in.
